Assalamualaikum warahmatullahi
wabarakaatuh dan salam sejahtera

Dear Members,

Welcome back to our NEWSLETTER. Our editorial team have completed an issue in time to share the highlights from the AGM for members who were unable to join us this year.

It was a great pleasure to see you and share our thoughts and ideas to tackle burning issues around Logistics and Supply chain in the most turbulent of times.

The message I shared in my speech in the AGM centered around the importance of collaboration and partnerships between the Industry, Academia and the Government to ensure that we as Malaysians, custodians of the professional body representing Logistics, Transport and Supply Chain industry in Malaysia encourage and promote the importance of resilience and relevance.

We have witnessed together how the pandemic has changed our lives. Till this very moment we continue to grapple with the economic challenges from pandemic and the war in Russia and Ukraine. There has been a series of natural disasters around the world due to the impact of climate change causing food and water shortages and displacement of people.

It is already a humanitarian crises which requires all of us work together, to remain resilient and make the right decisions that will sustain the future of humanity, the country and our institute.

“It was a great

our history”

To remain resilient our institute will have to play an important role as the bridge between industry, the government and the academia. This will ensure that we capture the needs of the industry both in the area of trade facilitation and human resources.

Through the collaborative partnerships we have initiated the past year and current, we will be able to offer our members the value of having a safe and secure trade networking platform. In addition to enhancing the value of strategic partnership with our approved training partners, we have also established the following partnerships..

- Malaysian Industry-Government Group for High Technology (MIGHT) would enable CILTM to harness and provide business matching services between industry players.
- Halal Development Corporation (HDC) and Malaysia Green Technology Corporation (MGTC), CILTM will support the government in providing high level skilled professionals that are very much sought after in the areas of Halal and Electric Vehicles.

- On sustainability in the logistics and transport sector our MOU with the Asia Pacific University to develop the Green Sustainable Centre of Excellence will help in areas concerning monitoring and controlling strategies for GHG emissions levels as well as adoption of renewable energy.

Moving forward, CILTM will work with other CILT branches to tap into the International network to introduce Global Best Practices which will further enhance the competitiveness of logistics and transport sector in Malaysia.

Indeed, there is much to do and let us come together to build a Stronger CILT and a Better Malaysia.

HOLIDAY TRAFFIC JAMS ARE OUR OWN DOING

During festive periods with extended holidays, headlines such as "Heavy traffic on expressways" normally appear. This is something to be expected.

But this time around the traffic jam increased multifold, causing so much frustration and anger to travelers. What happened? The simple answer is that the traffic jam was our own doing; we created the problem.

As part of its corporate social responsibility, the North-South Expressway (NSE) and the East Coast Expressway (ECE) implemented toll-free rates for the weekends prior to and after Hari Raya. Yes, the kind gesture was appreciated by the rakyat, but it also created fresh problems that erased the toll-free benefits.

The timing of the toll-free rates was not in line with what a transport economist would have recommended. It is common in the transportation sector to impose high rates during peak hours to reduce congestion. It is meant to encourage road users who can be flexible with their usage to shift away from peak periods. But the NSE and ECE did just the opposite.

By encouraging more motorists to take advantage of the toll-free rate, they exacerbated the situation. This worsened the peak-period congestion and created more problems, such as a shortage of petrol at highway stations. The associated costs if computed are also high. The extra fuel burnt due to the slow-moving traffic meant that air pollution increased correspondingly. What about the wear and tear of vehicles? And the loss of man-hours idling in traffic jams?

There is also the human factor. Motorist can attest to the fact that it can be frustrating when caught in long jams. Tiredness sets in. The stress on drivers, including their loved ones cooped up in the vehicle, is also high. Express bus operators must have been mad as they could have only fewer trips per day.

We learnt from Prime Minister Datuk Seri Ismail Sabri Yaakob that the Transport Ministry, Works Ministry, Malaysian Highway Authority and highway operators had long- term plans to overcome traffic congestion during festive periods.

This is welcome news. Highway operators are free to give motorists something to cheer about during festive periods, but the timing must be right.

The idea is to smoothen or level off the traffic curve (to redistribute the traffic) by applying toll-free rates during non-peak hours, such as midnight to 6am a few days before and after.
